Bo'ness Dean of Guild Court Finding Aid

Bo'ness Dean of Guild Court

The origins of the Dean of Guild Court were in the medieval Royal Burghs. Their powers to hear offences against neighbourliness gradually evolved into modern planning and building control regulations.

From 1862 Town Councils were permitted to set up Dean of Guild Courts and from 1892 all town councils were required to set up Dean of Guild Courts. The Dean of Guild Courts had powers to impose conditions relating to public health under the 1862 Police Act.

Access arrangements

These records are held in an off-site store and three days advance notice is required for access. Under The Building (Procedure) (Scotland) Amendment Regulations 2009, there are access restrictions to plans of public buildings if there is a security issue. Copying of plans of domestic properties requires the permission of the owner.

The Registers are held in Callendar House and are accessible to researchers on request.

The plans for minor and major warrants are currently only partly catalogued but are available for research. If a plan is not listed here then researchers can search of the Registers to find the original building warrant number which can then be used to search the uncatalogued plans. However, there is no guarantee that a plan listed in the Registers will still exist. Please note that many building warrant petitions and plans of the Bo'ness Dean of Guild Court do not survive.

Most of the plans are held in Accession No A998 which was transferred from Falkirk District Council Building Control in 1998. The reference number for each plan in this accession is based on the original building warrant number with the prefix A998. The earliest plans were not numbered and a number has therefore been allocated. Some plans were transferred to Falkirk Museums in the 1970s and these plans do not have building warrant numbers.
